BRIDGET O'CONNELL, OF CARHEN

- M Bridget O'Connell was the 4th dau. of Morgan O'Connell, of Carhen, and is believed to have been b. about 1780. She m. Myles McSwiney, of Kenmare. Notes on the McSwiney family were all destroyed by the Japanese in 1942 and there has not been time to reconstruct them. The McSwineys were a powerful family in the Kenmare and Kilgarvan area, and wills of Morgan McSwiney, of Cork, 1721, Morgan McSwiney, of Kilnagorey, 1797, and Morgan McSwiney, of Macroom, 1802, are mentioned by Vicars, whether they are connected to Myles is not yet rediscovered. The McSwineys lived at Dromguinah House, Kenmare, which was held under a lease to Terence McSwiney by a Mahoney who held the lands from Lord Shelbourne (1693). Dromguinah was sold to Daniel O'Connell, 1837. Bridget and Myles had 6 children,
- M1A Nicholas McSwiney, the eldest, who m. Miss C. Fitzherbert, d.s.p.

- M1E Mary McSwiney, m. Hugh MacDermott, brother of Charles The MacDermott (and uncle of the Right Hon. Hugh Hyacinth O'Rourke MacDermot, The MacDermot, Prince of Coolavin, P.C., b. 1 July, 1834). Hugh MacDermot was a District Inspector in the R.I.C. The MacDermot pedigree is such a long and important one that it deserves treatment in a subsequent tract devoted to Allied Families, but sufficient to say that Hugh MacDermot was the son of Hugh MacDermot, of Coolavin, by Elizabeth, dau. of Denis O'Conor, of Belangare. Hugh was the son of Myles of Coolavin, who m. Bridget, dau. of Charles O'Conor the Historian, and Myles was the son of Charles who m. Catherine Dillon. Mary McSwiney and Hugh MacDermot had 6 children who reached maturity, and they were,
